TIME OF OUR SHIPMENTS. Chrysanthemum plants are available from April 16th to July 1st inclusive. Carnation plants from January 1st to May 1st inclusive. Also, plants in 6-inch pots are available at the Garden during summer and autumn months at advanced prices.

Orders Filled: All orders are filled in strict rotation, carefully labeled, lightly and securely packed, and delivered to the carriers in good condition. In case stock of certain varieties is exhausted, we reserve the right to decline the order. To partially avoid such action, place your order early, so that the plants may be set aside. Assist in prompt delivery by using order sheet.

Owing to the increased cost of packing materials and labor, we are compelled to make a charge of 25 cents for packing any order of less than $2.00.

Its height is medium, reaching maturity around October 25. Price: $1.00 each, $10.00 per dozen.

Suggestions for Culture of Cascades

The Cascade varieties are all of exceptional beauty and exquisite daintiness. While chosen primarily for the ease with which they may be trained to hang or "cascade" downward, there are numerous ways in which they may be made to yield equally gratifying results with a minimum expenditure of time and effort.

Planted in the garden and stopped a number of times in the usual manner, these little-heralded horticultural phenomena will develop a rugged bushiness of free flowering growth that for sheer beauty may, perchance, outrival the much vaunted glory of the larger and more pretentious of their brethren.

Grown in pots and without special training, they may be taken care of in the open until such time as it is desirable to transfer them indoors, where their presence may lend a bit of sunshine to what otherwise might be a colorless interior. Let the fall season of dark shadows and crispness of air be brightened and warmed by the comforting cheer irradiating from one or more well-groomed plants of this type strategically placed on window ledge, bench or table.

Tying and Pinching (see drawings and photos)

TYING AND PINCHING (See drawings and photos above). When the plant grows to about 12 inches tall (drawing No. 1) it is bent from about the middle and the end tied to a fairly long No. 12 size galvanized wire which is bent at an angle of 45 degrees (as in Fig. 2). The supporting wire should point to north and the leader must be tied to it with raffia (Figs. 2 and 3) at least every seven days. All the laterals and the sublaterals should be pinched at every second or third joints as in Fig. 2, and this operation should be repeated continuously as they grow until around September 15th. As the plant increases in width an additional support is necessary to prevent toppling over on one side as in Fig. 4. The main leader is lowered gradually so that it will be in the horizontal position around September 15 as in Fig. B. When the buds begin to form the main stem starts the gradual vertical bending from its horizontal level with the surface of the plant now facing south as in Picture 5. When the buds show color, the pot is placed on high position so that the sprays will not touch the ground and bent to the final vertical position (as in Fig. C. Also see cut for Jane Harte).

PREPARATION OF SOIL. Prepare the compost by mixing well three-fifths by volume of medium heavy loam and the balance two-fifths of leaf mold and well decayed cattle manure (proportion of two-thirds leaf mold and one-third manure). In addition to this a 5-inch potful of bone-meal may be added to every three bushels of this soil. This compost may be prepared in large quantity and can be stored in shelter for later use.

FERTILIZER. Twice a month applications of commercial fertilizers (Gavioto, vigor, etc.) should be made during the growing months starting from early June up to the formation of their buds. The amount of fertilizer to be used depends largely upon the size of the plant. It is cautioned not to over-feed the plant, always remembering that very light applications frequently made are far better than over-dosing the plant at any single application.

RE-POTTING. The plants should be shifted into 6-inch pots when bought from us in little pots. Further, two to three shiftings into larger pots are required during the season, and these shifts should be made before the plants form their first root network on the inside of the pot. The final potting may be made about the middle of August and the sizes of pots used depends on the size and variety.

Cultural Suggestions — Commercial & Exhibition Types

SOIL PREPARATION. Prepare the beds early by spading in well decayed cattle manure or bone meal, working in thoroughly to a depth of 12 to 15 inches. Use peat if the soil is too sandy or too heavy.

FERTILIZING. Few applications of commercial fertilizers such as "Gaviota," "Vigoro" or other complete fertilizers should be made during the summer months. The feeding should be avoided during the periods of extreme heat or when the soil is too dry. Water the soil before applying if it is necessary. It should be stopped when the buds are large enough to make the final selection (Fig. 2).

STOPPING. When the plant is established in your garden and when it has developed 2 or 3 pairs of matured leaves, the center or the main growth is nipped off. Then the plant should be restricted to two or three shoots in order to obtain larger blooms. For the late blooming variety, the main growths of these new shoots may be nipped off again around July 15th in order to regulate the height, allowing only the original number of new shoots to rise per stem.

For the large anemones and pompons, allow 6 to 8 growths to a plant. Other cultures for these being similar with those of the large flowering varieties.

DISBUDDING (see drawing above). Immediately after the new shoots of your selection begin to send out side laterals, they should be removed very close at the base (see lowest lateral of Figure 1) at regular intervals about once a week. The basal shoots should be removed also as they appear. This procedure should be adhered to very religiously in order to obtain successful results.

The first bud produced by the plant is called the "Crown" bud and is distinguished by being surrounded by leaves. The "terminal" bud appears later in clusters surrounded with several flower buds.

The procedure of "taken buds" depends very largely on the variety and no fast rules can be given, but we recommend reserving terminal buds for the majority of the early flowering commercial and exhibition types in Southern California. The safest rule, we find, is not to save buds formed before August 20th in our district. The retention of too early crown buds often results with large percentage of crippled flowers, especially when large amount of nitrogen fertilizer remains in the soil unconsumed by the plant. Again, the hottest period of the year usually comes during the month of September and early October, the hazards of burning of petals and fading of colors are too frequent when early crown is retained in this district.

The final selection of bud should not be made too hastily nor when buds are very small (see Fig. 1). It is also advisable to allow on alternate bud (see Fig. 2) to remain until one is certain of all defects when final selection is being made (Fig. 3).

PESTS. Common pests and diseases are thrips, aphids, leaf-tyers, cut worms, mildew, etc. Plants should be examined frequently and sprayed with proper insecticides as recommended by dealers as soon as they are detected. After September 1st we recommend spraying the plants twice a month until buds begin to show color.

STAKING. Every individual stem should be supported with stake or by other means to hold the blooms upright.

Culture for Bush or Garden Varieties

Under these types are pompons and buttons, anemones, singles and hardy Koreans. These varieties are most effective in the gardens when grown low with as much growth as possible. This is obtained by pinching off the center of all the laterals two or three times up to the 1st or 10th of August. This method will prevent the plants from toppling too freely with minimum support.

Giant Flower Carnations Field-Grown . . . Hardy Rugged Plants

Cultural Directions for Carnations

Easy to Grow if These Simple Rules are Followed

Preparation of Soil

Though Carnations will tolerate a wide range of soil structure and acidity, the average home gardener will find a medium texture loam in a raised or banked bed as most satisfactory. The reason for the raised bed is to insure good drainage at all times because Carnations dislike soggy condition. A liberal amount of bone meal and well rotted steer manure is spaded into the soil before plants are set out. To counteract extreme acidity, which is unfavorable for healthy growth in Carnations, a light sprinkling of agricultural lime or wood ash would be beneficial.

Treatment of Purchased Plants

In order to reduce to a minimum, if not to eliminate entirely, any loss of plants sustained by our customers after shipment is received, our Garden will ship pre-hardened established plants in newly processed "Vita-bands." These plants are first rooted in propagating sand, then transplanted into individual plant bands. The plants are then kept for a minimum period of three weeks in open air, allowing them to be hardened and established sufficiently in bands to stand any type of long distance shipment.

When plants are received, the bands are removed and set out with the soil around the roots intact. They should be watered thoroughly after planting, but no further watering is required until the surface shows signs of getting dry.

Stopping and Disbudding

Carnations like full sunlight and the young plants should be spaced sufficiently apart so that they will have ample air circulation between the plants after they have formed into bushes.

They are first stopped when the plants are 3 or 4 inches high. The object of this is to encourage the young plant to build up a bushy plant which in turn will produce more flowers. The best method is to pull the center out; do not break it off. When the stem is broken off, only two or three new growths will appear but when pulled off, several stems will rise from this first operation. The center of these new growths are further topped occasionally until far into July, when winter flowers are preferred. Then the plants are allowed to form their flower stems. When the buds develop sufficiently large, all side buds are removed, thus leaving a single bud to a stem.

Feeding and Watering

Very wet or very dry soil conditions are both detrimental to support a vigorous, healthy growth of carnations. Although in winter they will stand being kept fairly dry much better than on the wet side.

Since the carnation is almost an ever-blooming flower, feeding should be made almost the year around after the final topping in July. Nitrogen content stimulates a rapid leaf and stem growth; phosphoric acid and potash build up steady, firm growth of plants with large flowers, good substance, and good color. For these reasons, complete fertilizers which are on the market today, such as "Gaviota," "Gro-rite," "Vigoro," etc., are recommended in cooler months. These fertilizers may be applied dry and watered into the soil. When the days become longer and hot days approach, a mulching of cow manure will largely assist in retaining the moisture within the soil. The feeding roots of carnations are very close to the surface and should not be cultivated very near the plant, and weeds appearing near the plant should be pulled out rather than hoed out.

Diseases and Insect Pests

Carnations, like other cultivated plants, are susceptible to fungus diseases and insect pests, but fortunately they are all easily controllable. Fungus disease or disease caused by other organisms such as blight, spot, rust and wilt can be controlled and prevented with the use of either "Bordeaux Mixture" or "Fermate" in solution form. A spreader is used to insure complete coverage and adherence of fungicide to the foliage.

The worst insect pests are aphids, thrips, red spiders, and other pests such as leaf rollers, etc. To date, an "Ortho" product called "Vaportone" is conceded to be the most effective spray for control of these pests. A thorough spraying with this product mixed with soluble 35% or 50% DDT spray sometimes will control these pests effectively for a period of a month even in a commercially grown field of Carnations. Two precautions must be exercised when handling "Vaportone": (A) do not touch the solution either in concentrated or diluted form; (B) always walk away from the spray. An overhead watering or occasional bathing of plants with strong pressure hose on clear warm days will help remove the red spiders and aphids when plants are young.
